DETAILED ACTION

Election/ Restriction

1. Applicant's election of Group I, species A as depicted in figure 1 in Paper No. 8 has been acknowledged. The election was made without traverse.
2. Claims 11-17, 22-27 are withdrawn from further consideration by Examiner, 37 C.F.R. 1.142(b), as being drawn to a non-elected invention.

Information Disclosure Statement

3. The information disclosure statement filed 07/08/02 fails to comply with 37 CFR 1.98(a)(2), which requires a legible copy of each U.S. and foreign patent; each publication or that portion which caused it to be listed; and all other information or that portion which caused it to be listed. It has been placed in the application file, but the information referred to therein has not been considered.
4. The information disclose statement filed on 04/28/03 has legible copies, therefore these references have been considered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

5. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

6. Claims 1, 5-6, and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Young et al ('132).

Young discloses a fluid containment container (#10) having a first and second opposing member (#12 and #14), a top (see figure 1), a bottom (#20), and a pair of opposing sides (see figure 1). The top of the container has an opening (#21) to receive materials. Young further discloses an anti-splash member (#26 and #28), which divides the container into a receiving portion (see generally at #30 in figure 2) and a collection portion (see generally at #31 in figure 3). The anti-splash member has at least one seam (#26 and #28 and see column 4, lines 6-11). The seams define an aperture (see figure 1, #30).

Figure 1 shows that the seam (#26 and #28) decline towards the aperture (#30). The aperture is located adjacent one of the opposing sides (see figure 1). Young further discloses a holding means (#44) and a clamp (#34), which can both act as a handle.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

7. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

8. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Art Unit: 3751

9. Claims 2-4, 7, 9-10, 18-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Young ('132) in view of Barreau ('880).

As previously, indicated in paragraph 6 above, further Young discloses all the limitations as set forth, however Young fails to disclose a container having opposing sides which are trapezoidal or curvilinear and is flushable.

Barreau ('880) discloses a protective lining for toilets, which is flushable and made of biodegradable material (see abstract). The lining of Barreau is disposable in a toilet (see column 4, lines 55-68). The liner is substantially trapezoidal (see column 2, line 25-26). The receiving portion (see upper part of container-generally at #3) has a larger volume than the collection portion (generally at #7). The shape and biodegradable materials used in Barreau help ensure proper flushing of the liner.

In view of Barreau, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to have modified the container of Young with a flushable and trapezoid or curvilinear container in order to provide a simple method of disposing the container.

10. Claim 21 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Young in view of Barreau in further view of Giori ('578).

As previously, disclosed in paragraph 9 above, Young discloses all the limitations as set forth, however Young fails to disclose a container, which is made of three layers.

Giori discloses a multi-layered film having three layers, including a barrier layer, a water-sensitive layer, and it may also include a saturation layer (see figure and Applicant's specification on page 7). The multilayered material enables the film to have relatively high strength and resistance, however it may also quickly be discharged into the water of a flushing toilet (see abstract).

In view of Giori, it would have been obvious to have modified the device of Young with a multi-layered container in order to provide for a strong and flushable container.
